

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An image printing method is disclosed for applications in printer drivers and printers. The image printing method performs various image processing such as shrinking, magnification, and cutting on an image using the printer driver. The processed image is 5 sent via several packets to the printer for the printer to perform relevant image processing. This saves a lot of memory space. Moreover, the transmission time between the printer driver and the printer is reduced.